SECTION B · Reading & Vocabulary

각 Source Snapshot을 읽고 가장 적절한 답을 고르세요.

Jakarta - Old City, Markets, Transport

Kota is part of old Jakarta and is known for canals and classical architecture. Sunda Kelapa is a busy port, and Pasar Ikan is a fish market where shoppers may bargain over prices. Traditional rickshaws were banned because they were slow and held up traffic; motorized bajaj vehicles replaced them.

Art Through New Eyes - Patrick & Sung Hee

Patrick Dougherty builds huge temporary sculptures from young trees and saplings. Community volunteers often help him collect and weave the material. Korean artist Sung Hee Cho cuts painted hanji into many small shapes and layers thousands of pieces on a canvas to create light and images inspired by the universe.

Sketches in a Gallery - Recognition

The man beside Theo compliments the perspective and shading in Theo's sketches. Theo notices paint on the man's hands and a name written on an old sketchbook. He realizes the friendly stranger is the famous artist Zayan Khan. Instead of telling Theo to copy him, Zayan says Theo is already an artist.

Superdog - Three Rescues

Jakarta - Contrast

Jakarta can feel futuristic because of its skyscrapers, but it also preserves old canals, markets, and historic buildings. The city is crowded and polluted, yet it offers museums, ports, food, shopping, and many cultural experiences. Understanding the city requires noticing both sides.

Art Through New Eyes - Materials and Meaning

The artists in the unit use very different materials: paints and pastels, chalk, saplings, and hanji. The material is not just decoration; it helps create the effect. Edgar's street art changes how people see a flat surface, while Sung Hee Cho's layered paper creates a sense of light and the universe.

Sketches in a Gallery - Main Message

Theo thinks of paintings as friends, but he doubts his own skill. Zayan Khan's response teaches him that being an artist is not only about fame. Careful observation, practice, and the courage to create already make Theo part of the artistic world.

Superdog - Ending and Theme

After many rescues, people celebrate Floppy as a hero. When he returns home, however, the children want to train him again. Floppy runs away and hides in a large pipe because he does not want to be Dog of the Year or Superdog. He simply wants peace and to be himself.
